Imagine what life would be like if you weren't able to see or hear. Everything would be dark and silent, all the time. Helen Keller never had to imagine it, because she lived it. When she was one and a half years old, she got sick with meningitis and scarlet fever and became blind and deaf. As she grew up, she took up the challenge to read and write. With the help of her friends, Helen caught on fast. She took life as well as the challenges that life presented her and turned them into something very positive. Helen Keller is an example in herself.

Questions
